

No Public Offering. Statements or opinions posted by users of this Platform are not offerings to sell or issue securities of NRP Stone, Inc.; Uplift Aerospace, Inc.; or any of their subsidiaries (“the Companies”). Any such statements or opinions are strictly those of the individual making the post and are not intended to be an offering of securities of the Companies. The Companies have not evaluated any such statement or opinions, have not verified the assertions included therein, and have not submitted any registration statement, prospectus or other filing with securities authorities of any federal, state, or local government or regulatory authority related to such statements or opinions. No shareholder or employee of the Companies is permitted to post statements or opinions recommending that any person should acquire shares of Common Stock in NRP Stone, Inc. or other securities issued by the Companies. The acquisition of shares of Common Stock and other securities involves certain risks, and the purchaser of any security (including those issued by the Companies) should carefully consider all risk factors and tax considerations relevant to the acquisition of shares of Common Stock or other securities. Further, the purchaser of any security (including those issued by the Companies) should carefully review all materials related to the securities, and should consult with the purchaser’s personal legal, tax and financial advisors for professional advice in relation to the purchaser’s personal circumstances.